Our school holds a "Sports Day" event every year in the spring. The event includes many different sports and activities. Students can compete in running, long jump, and swimming. There are also team sports like football, basketball, and volleyball.

Our school started this event about ten years ago to encourage students to be more active. Every student can sign up for at least one activity, but many students choose to participate in two or three. Before the event, we practice for several weeks. Teachers help us train and learn the rules of the games. Those who are good at running can join the track team. Those who enjoy team sports can form a group with their friends.

Finally, on the day of the event, everyone comes to the school's sports field. We compete, cheer for our friends, and have a lot of fun. The winners receive medals and feel very proud. During the event, we learn about teamwork and sportsmanship. It's not just about winning; it's about trying our best and supporting each other. Community service is work that people do to help others without being paid. It's a way for people to give back to their community and make it a better place. Many students and adults participate in community service. Common activities include cleaning up parks, visiting the elderly in nursing homes, and collecting food for those in need.

There are many reasons why people do community service. Some people enjoy the feeling of helping others. Others want to gain new skills or meet new people. For students, it can be a great way to learn about responsibility and teamwork. Volunteering can also help you understand the problems in your community and see how you can be a part of the solution. For instance, helping at an animal shelter can teach you about caring for animals, and tutoring younger students can improve your own understanding of a subject.

Before the modern era, helping neighbors was a normal part of life. Today, with busy schedules, organized community service programs make it easier for people to get involved. Many schools and companies encourage their students and employees to volunteer. They know that when people help build a stronger community, everyone benefits.

Question 28. According to the passage, what is community service?

Read the following passage and choose the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

Join school club

Do you want to learn a new skill? Would you like to meet new people? Do you want to have more fun? Then try joining a club at school. School clubs are becoming one of the most popular ways for students to spend their free time. I joined the photography club for a year. It's the biggest club in our school but it isn't the most expensive. After two months of learning, I took much better photos. But the best thing for me was the field trips. We went to many beautiful places to practice our skills.

If you're looking for something a bit cheaper, try the book club. Reading is a great way to relax and learn new things, and it can also be a good way to make friends. We all read the same book and then discuss it together. Many school clubs have lower fees for students who join at the beginning of the school year.

Read the following passage and choose the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

I was raised to believe that we are all responsible for each other in this world. I think of every person as my neighbour. I'll recognize that some neither people I meet are neither individuals I neither like nor feel like helping, but it is still my responsibility to reach out if they need help. Sometimes, helping others is easy, as it was last week when I helped my niece with her homework. It's not so easy when people are suffering from problems that never should have occurred. For example, most people know the consequences of abusing drugs or alcohol, yet many who receive help at public and private agencies are addicted to these substances. When I first started volunteering at the Center for Family Problems, I was amazed to learn how many people are surrounded by problems that their addictions have caused. I couldn't imagine doing some of the things that the Center's clients had done. However, I soon realized that addicts are just people who exceed their limits and end up in trouble. With this in mind, I was able to proceed to the next step: helping them overcome their addiction. I have gotten used to accepting people as they are and helping them in the best way I can.

Read the following passage and choose the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

For good or bad, computers are now part of our daily life. Experts predict that before long all schools and businesses and most families in rich parts of the world will own a computer of some kind. Among the general public, computers rouse strong feelings - people either love them or hate them.

The computer lovers talk about how useful computers can be in business, in education and in the home. Apart from all the games, you can do your accounts on them, learn languages from them, write letters on them and in some places, even do your shopping with them. Computers, they say, bring not only leisure, as many interesting jobs but are used as a great educational tool as well.

The haters, on the other hand, argue that computers, bring not leisure but unemployment. They worry, too, that people who spend all the time talking to computers may forget how to talk to each other. Their biggest fear is that computers may eventually take over from human beings altogether.

Question 28. What is the main idea of the passage?
