Like many countries, Britain has serious environmental problems. In 1952, more than 4,000 people died in London because of the smog. The government introduced new laws to stop smog from coal fires and factories and the situation improved a lot.

Today, London is much cleaner but there is a new problem: smog from cars. In December 1991, there was very little wind in London and pollution increased. As a result, about 160 people died from pollution in just four days.

Part of the problem is the new "out of town" shopping centres. In the past, people often walked to shops near their homes or went by bus. Now, many people drive to the new shopping centres. The small shops have disappeared and more people have to travel to do their shopping.

Many people are trying to reduce the use of cars in Britain. Some cities now have special bicycle lanes, so people cycle to work. Some people also travel to work together in one car to reduce pollution and costs.

1. When did more than 4,000 people die in London because of the smog?

2. How many people died from pollution in just four days in December 1991?

Daniel: Hi, Amy.

Daniel: OK. So what should we do?

Amy: We should recycle trash so that we can reduce land pollution.

Daniel: Recycle trash, OK.

Amy: What else should we do?

Daniel: Well, we should help clean up rivers so we can reduce water pollution.

Amy: Clean up rivers. Great idea. Anything else?

Daniel: Yes, we should ride our bikes to school so that we can reduce air pollution.

Daniel: I love it. Our poster will look great on the wall.
