From watches and phones to household appliances, everything is getting smarter. Now, thanks to Apple, that's also true of your water bottle.

The HidrateSpark Pro Smart Water Bottle - a mouthful, we know - takes all the guesswork out of tracking your water intake. The vacuum-insulated exterior should keep your liquids cold for up to a full day and it has a host of other neat features.

Apple's smart water bottle integrates with your Apple Watch and Apple Health. It takes into account your daily steps and exercise to calculate how much water you need.The LED puck at the bottom of the bottle lights up to remind you when it's time for a drink and tracks how many ounces or millimetres of water you drink throughout the day, using Bluetooth. You can also get a slightly less expensive version, without the insulation, in the form of the HidrateSpark Pro Tritan Plastic Sea Glass.
