* Suggestions:

Keeping our traditions and customs alive is very important for us, and people in my neighbourhood have several ways to do this. Firstly, we hold the festivals of our country and the area such as the MidAutumn Festival and the New Harvest Festival. Secondly, we worship our ancestors, and we celebrate their death anniversaries every year. This helps express our respect and gratitude to them. Thirdly, we keep cooking and enjoying traditional food, especially on special occasions like the Lunar New Year. Moreover, we regularly teach children about the importance of observing traditions and customs. By doing these things we keep our rich culture alive, and pass it down to the next generation.

During the teenage years, many young people can at times be difficult to talk to. They often seem to dislike being questioned. They may seem unwilling to talk about their work in school. This is a normal development at this age, though it can be very hard for parents to understand. It is part of becoming independent of teenagers trying to be adult while they are still growing up. Young people are usually more willing to talk if they believe that questions are asked out of real interest and not because people are trying to check up on them.

Parents should do their best to talk to their sons and daughters about schoolwork and future plans but should not push them to talk if they don't want to. Parents should also watch for the danger signs: some young people in trying to be adult may experiment with drugs, alcohol, or smoking. Parents need to watch for any signs of unusual behaviour which may be connected with these and get help if necessary.

28. Why do adults sometimes find teenagers difficult to talk to?

A. Because teenagers don't want to talk to other people.

B. Because teenagers think adults are not honest.

C. Because most teenagers dislike being questioned.

D. Because most teenagers hate adults.

29. What does the word "their" refer to?

A. parents' B. young people's C. teenagers' D. daughters'

Edinburgh is the capital city of Scotland. It has enormous historical significance. Located on the east coast of Scotland, Edinburgh proudly offers a window to the past. For many people, this city is an exciting mix of something traditional and something modern.

Edinburgh has been Scotland's royal city since 1437. Most of Edinburgh's sights are within two districts: the old town and the new town. The medieval Royal Mile stretching for over a mile from Edinburgh Castle to the Palace of Holyroodhouse dominates the city's central area. The Royal Mile is one of the largest, longest and most splendid streets for buildings in Britain.

To millions of visitors, Edinburgh Castle is a must-see because there are many treasures. Princess Street is in Edinburgh's new town, directly below the castle. Next to Princess Street, in the shadow of Edinburgh Castle, lies the green Princess Street Gardens. This is one of the most delightful gardens in Britain. Edinburgh is also a cultural centre. The worldwide famous Edinburgh Fringe Festival (a series of arts festivals held in August) draws thousands and thousands of visitors to the city annually. So Edinburgh is really a place no traveler should ignore.

Vietnam's Past Education System

In the past, Vietnam's education system was influenced by different cultures, especially Chinese and French. The first university in Vietnam, the Imperial Academy, was built in 1076 for the education of royal family members and high-ranking officials. Later, it opened to students from various backgrounds.

Before the French arrived, Vietnam was administered under the Mandarin system for about 2,000 years. When the French took over, they changed the education system to a Western-oriented one. To join the civil service, Vietnamese people had to learn French and the new version of their own language, instead of using traditional Chinese characters.

In the early 1900s, the education system was revised into three levels: elementary, primary, and secondary. The national language (Quoc Ngu) was added to the curriculum, and rote learning and class discipline were emphasized. Many new schools and colleges were built, and French became an important second language.

We went camping at Ba Vi National Park, which is famous as a mountainous ecological tourism centre. It is home to hundreds of wildlife species, so we had a chance to get into a real natural habitat. We went there on a coach. We set off early and because the road was a bit bumpy and tricky, we were tired when we arrived. After about two hours, we finally reached the campsite in Ngoc Hoa cave area. We set up our camps before exploring the park. We explored the rich nature in the Botanical Garden, trying to take deep breaths of the fresh air and enjoying the diversity of the flora there. We took photos of the places we saw. At night, we burnt wood for a campfire. We sat around the fire and sang and danced. We also had team-building activities, which were exciting and memorable. On the next day, we went trekking to Thuong Temple - a national cultural monument at Tan Vien Peak. We learnt much about the culture associated with the legend Son Tinh and Thuy Tinh from our guide.

We tried lam rice, hill chicken and milk products - the specialities of the area. We were so impressed by the trip's activities, scenery and the food of the area.

In the earliest times children got their education directly from parents and other adults. They learned mainly skills for survival. Adults passed down this knowledge through spoken language. Eventually cultures around the world began inventing writing. As societies developed they set up schools to teach reading, writing, maths and other subjects.

The first schools were usually just for boys. Most of the students came from rich and powerful families. Often the purpose of their education was religious training. In many cultures the religious leaders formed the highest level of society. Some schools had other purposes as well. Many schools focused on military training. Sometimes youths attended special schools to learn the art of public speaking. These skills were meant to help them become future leaders.

Most girls received their education at home. They learned cooking, sewing and other useful skills. Over time education became available to more people, not just the rich and powerful. The governments of some countries set up public systems of education in the 1800s. More schools opened to girls.

During the 1900s marks, or grades, became a new measure of learning. Testing became a regular part of formal education. As education became more important to people, teachers' colleges opened. The requirements for becoming a teacher became stricter. Teaching became a highly respected profession.

My grandma is more than ninety years old. This age makes her the oldest person in the whole family. Despite her old age, her memory is still fresh. She always tells us that many things used to be different when she was young.

My grandma used to begin her day very early. She used to start her day at 4.00 in the morning while everybody else was still in bed until 6.00. She used to do all the housework by herself. She used to make clothes for her children and for her outdoor work. She used to raise some chicken and sheep and grow vegetables. There didn't use to be many pastime activities. Her hobby used to be listening to the radio. In the evening all the family used to sit by the fire in the sitting room where all the family gathered at night to tell tales or discuss family matters as weddings, harvest time or to assign the next day's work.

When a member of the family was ill, she showed him which herbs to use. She collected them from the near forest or from the mountain. My grandma knew so many effective methods to cure illness.
