At 2,315 miles (3,726 kilometres), the Missouri River is nearly as long as the Mississippi River, into which it flows. Together the Missouri and the Mississippi form one of the world's longest river systems. There are seven major dams and dozens of smaller dams on the Missouri. The dams use water from the river to produce electricity. They also create reservoirs, or artificial lakes, behind them. The reservoirs store water that is needed for cities and for irrigation of crops. Irrigation is important because most of the regions around the river have a fairly dry climate.

In addition to producing electricity, the dams on the Missouri are also used to control the water level of the river. Sometimes water is held back to prevent floods. At other times, water is released to keep the water level high enough for barges to float downstream.

By changing the natural flow of water in the Missouri, dams and reservoirs have altered the river's ecosystem. They have affected the depth and temperature of the water in different parts of the river. Such changes have made it difficult for some species, or types, of plants, animals, and fish to survive. A few wildlife species in the region are now endangered.

Question 1. On the Missouri River, there are dozens of _____.

- A. major dams B. small dams C. reservoirs D. crops

Question 2. Why is it necessary sometimes to keep the water level high?

- A. To produce electricity. B. To prevent floods.
C. To let barges float downstream. D. To change the flow of water.

Question 3. The word “They” in the last paragraph refers to _____.

- A. dams and reservoirs
- B. parts of the river
- C. such changes
- D. some species

- A. The Missouri River is longer than the Mississippi River.
- B. The Missouri River flows into the Mississippi River.
- C. The Mississippi River flows into the Missouri River.

Part 1. (Unit 8- Skills 2)

Hello everyone. Welcome to the Brontes tour. My name's Gillian and I'll be accompanying you on our nine-hour tour.

We'll drive through the beautiful Yorkshire countryside with its vast green hills and fields. We'll stop at the villages of Clapham and Wycoller. There you can see the original school and ruinous cottage, which appear in Charlotte's world-famous book, Jane Eyre. We'll then drive on to Haworth, the home of the Brontes. We'll visit their two-storey house and the school they set up for the children in the village. The entrance ticket to the house is included in the tour, so you don't have to pay extra. We will also visit the graveyard where the members of the Brontes rest in peace. After that we have an hour for lunch. There are cafés and restaurants nearby. Our tour continues at one thirty. We'll wander down the main high street where the Brontes walked 150 years ago. It has hardly changed since then. You'll see many places that the members of the Bronte sisters used to visit. Next, ...

Part 2. (Unit 7- Skills 2)

The Amazon Rainforest is a magnificent area. It is the largest tropical forest on earth. The Amazon possesses more than half of our world's tropical forest areas. It is very rich in flora and fauna.

The Amazon Rainforest is home to the most biological diversity, serving as the green lung of the world. It contributes to the production of one-fifth of the oxygen in our atmosphere. The Amazon also helps to slow climate change. For these reasons, the Amazon ranks among seven natural wonders of the world. It has so many things which are especially important for our earth and our future.

Today the biodiversity of this region is threatened. These threats include illegal logging, deforestation, fires, and rare animal species extinction. Protecting wild species and the wild places where they live is so urgent for us. Governments and the communities living in the area are doing a lot to restore damaged ecosystems. They plant trees and establish parks to protect rainforests and wildlife. They also encourage people to live in a way that doesn't hurt the environment.
