Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the option that best fits each of the numbered blanks from 18 to 22.

Steven Paul Jobs was born on 24 February, 1955 in San Francisco, USA. His biological parents were not married (18) _____. He was adopted by Clara and Paul Jobs. In 1971, Jobs met Steve Wozniak, who was five years older than him, but they bonded over their love of electronics. After high school, Jobs attended Reed College in Oregon, but found the classes boring and dropped out after six months.

When Jobs was 21, he and Wozniak started Apple Computers in Jobs' family garage with money they got by selling Jobs' van and Wozniak's scientific calculator. By making computers smaller, cheaper, and accessible to everyday users, their company became a huge success and sales quickly increased. (19) _____ in 1985, he returned to his post in 1997 when the company needed new ideas. He helped invent new products such as the iMac, the iBook for students, the iPod music player, and iTunes music software. In 2007, he introduced the touch-screen iPhone which changed (20) _____. Apple products were not only designed to be cutting-edge technology, but also to be stylish and easy to use. In addition, Jobs contributed to computer animation. In 1986, he bought a small company, which later became Pixar Animation Studios. It produced (21) _____ Toy Story, followed by other blockbusters.

In 2003, Jobs was diagnosed a rare form of pancreatic cancer. He fought the disease for several years, and stopped working in August, 2011. Two months later, he passed away. Jobs died at his home in Palo Alto, California, around 3 p.m. (PDT) on October 5, 2011, due to complications from a relapse of his previously treated islet-cell pancreatic neuroendocrine tumor, (22) _____. He had lost consciousness the day before and died with his wife, children, and sisters at his side. On an Apple web page, a statement reads, 'Apple has lost a visionary and creative genius, and the world has lost an amazing human being.'

Read the passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions from 23 to 30.

As we continue to face the impacts of climate change, having a green environment has become increasingly important to the future of our society. To achieve this, the world is shifting towards green energy, and two particular types of energy at the centre of this movement are solar power and wind power.

Solar power is all about harnessing the energy of the sun by using solar panels to convert sunlight into usable electricity. This highly efficient form of energy produces zero emissions, so it can significantly reduce our carbon footprint. Moreover, solar panels are perfect for installation on a small scale, such as in private homes, since they require very little maintenance and have a long lifespan. However, the ability to generate solar power depends on the time of day and weather conditions. This means that solar panels are often less useful if they are installed in places where sunny weather is not typical.

Wind power, on the other hand, involves converting the energy of the wind into electricity using large turbines. Wind power doesn't produce any greenhouse gases, but it is not ideal for private use since turbines require consistent care. However, wind farms can be installed on a large scale and are able to produce electricity continuously regardless of the time of day. This means that if there were more investments in wind power, it could be a viable way to provide energy for major cities and even for whole regions.

Wind and solar power contribute significantly to a green environment by reducing our reliance on fossil fuels, helping us cut down on pollution and slow climate change. Additionally, using renewable energy sources helps promote spending on sustainable development by creating new career opportunities in the green energy sector.

For now, the biggest challenge of adopting green energy is the costs associated with installation and infrastructure, but the benefits unquestionably outweigh the downsides. If we want to stop the climate crisis and create a better and more sustainable future, green energy sources will undoubtedly be the key.

(Adapted from

- D. There exists little infrastructure for renewable energy at present.

Read the following passage about the The Complex Journey of Growth and Sustainability and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions from 31 to 40.

Urbanization, the movement of people from rural areas to cities, is one of the most significant global phenomena of the 21st century. This demographic shift is primarily driven by the promise of better job opportunities, improved living standards, and access to modern infrastructure. Cities, once small settlements, have now turned into bustling metropolises, home to millions of people. However, while urbanization offers numerous benefits, it also brings a whole new ball game in terms of challenges that must be addressed for long-term sustainability.

As more people migrate to cities, the strain on urban infrastructure becomes evident[II]. Overcrowding, traffic congestion, and pollution are common problems faced by many cities today[III]. In addition, the expansion of cities often leads to the destruction of natural habitats, [III]threatening biodiversity and contributing to environmental degradation. Furthermore, [IV]. As a result, many urban residents find themselves living in informal settlements or slums, where basic needs are not met.

On the other hand, urbanization also creates opportunities for innovation and growth. Cities are centers of economic activity, technological advancement, and cultural exchange. The concentration of resources and human capital can lead to the development of groundbreaking solutions for societal challenges. Smart cities, which use technology to improve urban living, are becoming more common. Additionally, urbanization encourages the development of sustainable practices, such as green architecture and energy-efficient transportation systems.

In conclusion, urbanization is a complex and multifaceted process that requires a balance between growth and sustainability. While it offers substantial opportunities for economic development and social progress, it also brings about significant challenges that need innovative solutions. As we move toward the future, it is crucial to create cities that are not only economically viable but also environmentally sustainable and inclusive.

Green living is a lifestyle that prioritizes sustainability and environmental consciousness. It encompasses a range of practices aimed at reducing one's ecological footprint and promoting a harmonious coexistence with nature. Individuals who embrace green living make conscious choices in various aspects of their lives to minimize waste, conserve resources, and promote a healthier planet.

One facet of green living involves adopting eco-friendly habits at home. This includes implementing energy-efficient measures such as using LED light bulbs, insulating homes, and investing in renewable energy sources like solar panels. Additionally, practicing responsible waste management by recycling, composting, and reducing single-use plastics is crucial in minimizing landfill waste and preserving natural resources.

Green living extends beyond the confines of one's home. People committed to this lifestyle opt for sustainable transportation methods, such as biking, walking, or using public transportation whenever possible. They also support local and organic food options, reducing their carbon footprint by consuming food produced with minimal pesticide use and transportation emissions. By embracing green living, individuals contribute to the collective effort to combat climate change and protect ecosystems. This lifestyle promotes a more sustainable and balanced future, where the needs of both current and future generations are met without compromising the health of the planet.

Question 30: In which paragraph does the writer mention a green lifestyle at home?

- A. Paragraph 1 B. Paragraph 2 C. Paragraph 3 D. Paragraph 4

Read the passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions from 31 to 40.

[I] Over the past few years, working from home has become very popular all over the world. [II] An increasing number of companies allow employees to work from home at least one or two days a week. [III] While working from home can come with many benefits, there are also some drawbacks to consider. [IV] The most common advantage is that it doesn't involve any commute to work. Many people spend more than 30 minutes each way travelling to their workplace and often have to deal with train delays or traffic jams during rush hour. Long daily commuting is also linked with increased levels of stress and anxiety. Therefore, people save time for getting extra sleep or eating a healthy breakfast if they work from home. Furthermore, working from home offers greater flexibility, which means employees can choose when to start and finish their working day as long as they complete all tasks on time and meet the deadlines. By having control over work schedules, people can attend to personal matters and achieve better work-life balance. For example, working mothers can take care of their children or adult learners can fit classes into their busy life.

However, working from home is not suitable for everyone. Some employees may feel isolated and lonely when they don't have much contact with their colleagues and organisation as a whole. They may miss the social interaction and creative atmosphere in the workplace. They may also prefer face-to-face supervision and meetings with managers or colleagues. Therefore, it would be difficult for these employees to complete their work on their own at home. In addition, when people work from home, they may find it hard to avoid distractions such as screaming children, dogs barking, or household chores. Even if they have a dedicated workspace in their home, it may not be easy for them to stay focused on their work, be efficient, and meet targets.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions from 23 to 30.

Hygiene has played a vital role in human civilization throughout history. Ancient civilizations, such as the Egyptians, Greeks and Romans, were among the first to recognize the importance of cleanliness for health. They practiced bathing and used natural oils to maintain personal hygiene. The Romans even built elaborate public bathhouses, which became social centers for relaxation and sanitation. These early efforts showed an understanding that hygiene was linked to overall well-being.

During the Middle Ages, however attitudes towards hygiene changed significantly. The spread of diseases like the Black Death led people to believe that bathing could make them more vulnerable to infections. As a result, frequent bathing became rare, and cleanliness was not prioritized. Many people relied on strong perfumes to cover body odor, while poor waste management in cities created unsanitary conditions. This lack of hygiene contributed to widespread illness and high mortality rates.

The 19th century marked a turning point in the understanding of hygiene with the rise of scientific discoveries. Pioneers like Louis Pasteur and Joseph Lister demonstrated the link between germs and diseases, leading to improved medical practices and public health measures. The introduction of handwashing and sterilization in hospitals greatly reduced infection rates. Public awareness campaigns and government regulations began to promote better hygiene in everyday life.

Today, hygiene remains a crucial aspect of public health and daily routines. Advancements in technology have made access to clean water and sanitation facilities more widespread. People now understand the importance of practices like handwashing, brushing teeth, and proper waste disposal. The history of hygiene reflects humanity's ongoing efforts to protect health and prevent disease, proving its significance across time.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions from 31 to 40.

[I] Stress has become a significant problem for many students in today's educational environment. [II] Many students feel stressed because of heavy workloads, tough exams, and the high expectations set by parents and teachers. [III] This stress can impact both their mental and physical health, making it challenging to concentrate and perform well academically. [IV]

One of the primary causes of stress at school is the intense pressure to succeed. Students are frequently expected to excel in all subjects, participate in extracurricular activities, and complete assignments on time. The fear that they might fail or not meet expectations can lead to self-doubt and anxiety. Moreover, the competition for top grades and college admissions has increased, adding even more pressure. This kind of stress can cause students to feel overwhelmed, especially when they struggle to balance their studies with other aspects of their lives.

Another contributing factor to school stress is social pressure. Many students face challenges such as bullying, peer pressure, or the need to fit in with their classmates. These social issues can make school a stressful place, causing students to feel isolated or excluded. Additionally, the widespread use of social media has created new sources of stress, as students often compare their lives to the seemingly perfect lives of others online. This comparison can lead to feelings of inadequacy and low self-esteem, further increasing their stress levels.

There are several effective ways to help students manage stress at school. Providing access to mental health resources, such as counseling services, can offer students a safe space to express their concerns. Schools can also organize stress management workshops that teach relaxation techniques, such as deep breathing and meditation. Encouraging students to practice good time management and get enough sleep can improve their ability to handle stress. Finally, support from teachers and parents, who emphasize the importance of effort over perfection, can make a significant difference in reducing stress.

Question 31: Where in paragraph 1 does the following sentence best fit?

School is meant to be a place for growth and learning, yet it often becomes a major source of anxiety.

- A. [I] B. [II] C. [III] D. [IV]

Question 32: The phrase excel in in paragraph 2 could be best replaced by

- A. control B. struggle C. manage D. master

Question 33: The word they in paragraph 2 refers to

- A. subjects B. activities C. students D. assignments

Question 34: According to paragraph 3, which of the following is NOT mentioned as a cause of social stress a school?

- A. peer pressure B. bullying
C. romantic relationships D. social media comparisons

Question 35: Which of the following best summarizes paragraph 3?

- A. Social challenges, including peer dynamics and online exposure, heighten student stress.
B. Peer conflicts and the desire to fit in are the primary sources of school related anxiety.
C. the main cause of stress for students is dealing with pressure from classmates.
D. Social factors like bullying, peer pressure, and digital comparisons intensify stress at school.

Question 36: The word inadequacy in paragraph 3 is OPPOSITE in meaning to

- A. confidence B. abundance C. shortage D. shortcoming

Question 37: Which of the following is TRUE according to the passage?

- A. Students often experience stress solely from high parental expectations.
B. Balancing schoolwork and personal life can be a major source of stress.
C. The primary solution to school stress is reducing academic requirements.
D. Most students find social media helpful for managing school-related stress.

Question 38: Which of the following best paraphrases the underlined sentence in paragraph 4?

- A. Giving students access to mental health resources like counseling services provides them with a secure space to share their worries.
B. Not until students have access to mental health resources like counseling services are they able to completely eliminate their stress.

C. Offering students mental health resources, such as therapy, ensures they never experience stress again.

D. Allowing students to access mental health resources like counseling services guarantees that they will overcome all their stress.

Question 39: Which of the following can be inferred from the passage?

A. Teachers often overlook the importance of supporting students in managing their stress.

B. The majority of student stress comes from unrealistic expectations set by schools.

C. Focusing only on relaxation techniques is the best way to reduce student stress.

D. Students are likely to feel less stressed when effort is valued over achieving perfect results.

Question 40: Which of the following best summarizes the passage?

A. Academic challenges and social expectations cause significant stress, urging schools to offer time management and mental health support.

B. High academic pressure and intense competition create stress for students, highlighting the need for effective stress management programs.

C. Academic demands and social issues both contribute to student stress, with solutions like counseling, time management, and supportive guidance suggested.

D. Social pressures, including peer influences and digital comparisons, escalate stress levels among students, leading school to prioritize relaxation techniques and meditation practices.

Read the following passage about Healthy Benefits of Yoga and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions from 23 to 30.

Yoga is a healthy lifestyle. One of the benefits of yoga is that you can choose a yoga style that is suitable for your lifestyle, such as hot yoga, power yoga, relaxation yoga, etc. If you are a yoga beginner, Hatha Yoga, which focuses on basic postures at a comfortable pace, would be great for you. If you want to increase strength through using more of your own body's resistance, Power Yoga may be right for you. Whether you prefer you're at home, in a private session, watching a DVD or at a studio or gym, there are a huge variety of options available to suit your goals and needs.

Improved flexibility is one of the first and most obvious benefits of yoga. During your first class, you probably won't be able to touch your toes. But if you stick with it, you'll notice a gradual loosening, and eventually, seemingly impossible poses will become possible. Each of the yoga poses is built to reinforce the muscles around the spine, the very center of your body, which is the core from which everything else operates.

When the core is working properly, posture is improved, thus alleviating back, shoulder, and neck pain. Strong muscles do more than look good. They also protect us from conditions like arthritis and back pain, and help prevent falls in elderly people. And when you build strength through yoga, you balance it with flexibility. If you just went to the gym and lifted weights, you might build strength at the expense of flexibility.

Yoga gets your blood flowing. More specifically, the relaxation exercises you learn in yoga can help your circulation, especially in your hands and feet. Yoga also gets more oxygen to your cells, which function better as a result. Twisting poses are thought to wring out venous blood from internal organs and allow oxygenated blood to flow in once the twist is released. Many studies found that a consistent yoga practice improved depression and led to greater levels of happiness and better immune function.

Read the following passage about TikTok app and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions from 31 to 40.

TikTok is a popular social media app where people can create and share short videos [I]. It started in China in 2016 as Douyin [II]. The app is known for its easy-to-use tools that let users add music, effects, and filters to their videos [III]. People of all ages enjoy making and watching TikTok videos, which can be funny, educational, or creative [IV].

One of the reasons TikTok is so popular is because of its algorithm, which shows users videos that match their interests. When you open the app, you see a personalized feed called the "For You" page. This page is different for everyone and updates with new videos all the time. Users can also follow their favorite creators to see more of their content.

TikTok has become a platform for trends and challenges. Many users participate in dance challenges, lip-syncing, and other viral activities. These trends can spread quickly, reaching millions of people in a short time. Because of this, TikTok has influenced music charts, fashion, and even language. Songs that go viral on TikTok often become hits on other platforms too.

The app is also a space for education and advocacy. Many creators use TikTok to share knowledge about various topics, such as science, history, cooking, and fitness. Others use the platform to raise awareness about social issues and promote positive change.

In addition to individual creators, many brands and businesses use TikTok for marketing. They create content to engage with their audience, often using popular trends and challenges to promote their products.

However, TikTok has faced some criticism and challenges. Concerns about privacy and data security have led to scrutiny from governments. Despite these issues, TikTok still remains one of the most downloaded apps in the world.

Read the following passage about green energy and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions from 23 to 30.

Powering the Future

As we continue to face the impacts of climate change, having a green environment has become increasingly important to the future of our society. To achieve this, the world is shifting towards green energy, and two particular types of energy at the center of this movement are solar power and wind power.

Solar power is all about harnessing the sun's energy by using solar panels to convert sunlight into usable electricity. This highly efficient form of energy produces zero emissions, so it can significantly reduce our carbon footprint. Moreover, solar panels are perfect for installation on a small scale, such as in private homes, since they require very little maintenance and have a long lifespan. However, the ability to generate solar power depends on the time of day and weather conditions. This means that solar panels are often less useful if they are installed in places where sunny weather is not typical.

Wind power, on the other hand, involves converting the energy of the wind into electricity using large turbines. Wind power produces no greenhouse gases, but it is not ideal for private use since turbines require consistent care. However, wind farms can be installed on a large scale and can produce electricity continuously regardless of the time of day. This means that if there were more investments in wind power, it could be a viable way to provide energy for major cities and even whole regions.

Wind and solar power contribute significantly to a green environment by reducing our reliance on fossil fuels, helping us cut down on pollution and slow climate change. Additionally, using renewable energy sources helps promote spending on sustainable development by creating new career opportunities in the green energy sector.

For now, the biggest challenge of adopting green energy is the costs associated with installation and infrastructure, but the benefits unquestionably outweigh the downsides. If we want to stop the climate crisis and create a better and more sustainable future, green energy sources will undoubtedly be the key.

Read the passage about unusual jobs and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions from 31 to 40.

Unusual Jobs

Around the world, there are some jobs that may seem quite strange and surprising to you.

[I] In Japan, the railway system is huge and everyone there uses trains. [II] This makes them overcrowded most of the time. [III] During rush hour, railway station attendants called pushers or oshiya perform a unique task - they push passengers into trains. [IV] This is necessary because of the large number of commuters who wish to arrive at their destinations on time.

Have you ever wondered how the world's tallest building, Burj Khalifa in Dubai, is cleaned? It takes a team of 36 window cleaners a total of three months to clean the tower's reflective windows. Working from a height of more than 800 meters, the cleaners face huge challenges, especially during bad weather. They must be the bravest cleaners in the world.

In the UK, millions of golf balls are lost every year in the lakes and ponds around golf courses. This has led to a demand for golf ball divers, who retrieve and clean the balls. Most divers are professionals, but they spend long hours crawling through mud and carrying heavy buckets. On average, they collect about 5,000 balls per lake, which are later resold or recycled.

Question 31. Where in paragraph 1 does the following sentence best fit?

"This job is quite unusual and essential in crowded cities."

A. The team size of 36 cleaners

B. Long working hours

C. Unpredictable weather conditions

D. Limited cleaning tools

Question 35. Which of the following best summarises paragraph 3?

A. Recovering golf balls is a lucrative and clean profession for many divers.

B. Golf ball divers face dangerous conditions to recover lost balls, which are then resold or recycled.

C. Golf courses in the UK are losing thousands of balls due to poor maintenance.

D. Divers are professionals who collect golf balls to make a living, but the job is easy and well-paid.

Question 36. The word demand in paragraph 3 is OPPOSITE in meaning to _____.

A. opposition

B. surplus

C. rejection

D. abundance

Question 37. Which of the following is TRUE according to the passage?

A. Lost golf balls in the UK are mostly discarded instead of being recycled.

B. Pushers in Japan help trains run more smoothly by organizing passengers.

C. Golf ball divers collect thousands of balls per lake for personal use.

D. Cleaning Burj Khalifa requires a smaller team due to its advanced design.

Question 38. Which of the following best paraphrases the underlined sentence in paragraph 3?

"This has led to a demand for golf ball divers, who retrieve and clean the balls."

A. The job of golf ball divers became popular due to lost balls in ponds.

B. Golf ball divers became necessary as golf courses grew in size.

C. More golf balls are lost every year, increasing the need for divers to retrieve and clean them.

D. The need for golf ball divers arises as more balls are discarded in lakes.

Question 39. What can be inferred from the passage?

A. Cleaning tall buildings like Burj Khalifa is simple with modern technology.

B. Golf ball divers earn their living primarily through professional tournaments.

C. Overcrowded trains and golf ball loss are minor issues in modern society.

D. The pushers' job in Japan shows how overcrowding is managed effectively.

Question 40. Which of the following best summarises the passage?

A. Strange jobs like those of train pushers and golf ball divers are becoming more common in the modern world.

B. Innovative professions like window cleaners and golf ball divers are essential to modern society despite their odd nature.

C. Across the globe, unusual jobs like train pushers, window cleaners, and golf ball divers show how unique challenges create unexpected professions.

In recent years, the job market has undergone significant changes, driven by advancements in technology and shifts in worker preferences. Remote work has gained immense popularity, allowing employees to work from home or anywhere with an internet connection. This flexibility has become a top priority for many job seekers, leading companies to adopt hybrid work models to attract and retain talent.

The demand for skilled workers in fields such as technology, healthcare, and renewable energy is on the rise. Employers are increasingly looking for candidates with specialized skills, prompting many individuals to pursue further education and training to enhance their employability. Online courses and certification programs have made it easier for people to acquire new skills while balancing other commitments.

However, the job market is not without its challenges. Many industries are facing labor shortages, leading to increased competition for qualified candidates. This has resulted in higher wages and better benefits for workers, but it also means that companies must adapt quickly to meet their staffing needs. Additionally, workers are becoming more vocal about their rights and working conditions, pushing for more equitable practices in the workplace.

Job seekers today are also placing greater emphasis on company culture and values. They prefer employers who prioritize diversity, equity, and inclusion, as well as those who demonstrate a commitment to social and environmental responsibility. As a result, companies are reevaluating their corporate practices to align with these expectations, aiming to create a more positive work environment.

Overall, the current job market is dynamic and evolving. As technology continues to reshape industries and worker preferences shift, both employers and employees must remain adaptable to succeed in this changing landscape.

The genius

Leonardo da Vinci was one of the greatest painters, architects, and thinkers in his era. His works have influenced not only other artists and painters, but also people working in scientific fields.

He was born in 1452 in a small town near Vinci, Italy, where his surname comes from. Leonardo loved nature and spent a lot of time drawing pictures of animals and plants. He received little formal education, but his uncle and father soon discovered his talent, so they decided to send him to a workshop in Florence to apprentice with the master artist Verrocchio. Da Vinci not only improved his skills in drawing, painting, and sculpting, but he also picked up knowledge and technical skills in other areas including mechanics, carpentry, metalwork, and architecture.

In 1472. Leonardo qualified as a master artist and opened his own workshop. [I]However, he still continued to work together with Verrocchio for the next five years. After that, he started working independently and completed a painting for the Duke of Milan. [II]His work made a huge impression on the Duke who decided to offer him a position in his court. While in Milan, Da Vinci was invited to design innovative buildings, machines, and weapons. He would draw up plans for several inventions of the future such as tanks, submarines, and flying machines.[III] He left behind several notebooks filled with diagrams, drawings, observations, and notes of his studies, ideas, and inventions.[IV]

Unfortunately, his interests were so broad that he often changed his focus to a new project and rarely finished the works he had started. The Last Supper and Mona Lisa were two of the masterpieces he could finish during his lifetime. In 1495, he started The Last Supper, which took him nearly three years to complete. In 1503, he began painting the Mona Lisa and worked on it from time to time over several years until his death.

Da Vinci died in 1519, at the age of 67, but he is still considered as one of the greatest geniuses of all time. His paintings changed the world of art, and many inventions were carried out based on his ideas and sketches. His greatness lies in the depth and diversity of his knowledge, and 500 years after his death, his genius shines as bright as ever.

Read the following passage about green energy and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions from 23 to 30.

Powering the Future

As we continue to face the impacts of climate change, having a green environment has become increasingly important to the future of our society. To achieve this, the world is shifting towards green energy, and two particular types of energy at the center of this movement are solar power and wind power.

Solar power is all about harnessing the sun's energy by using solar panels to convert sunlight into usable electricity. This highly efficient form of energy produces zero emissions, so it can significantly reduce our carbon footprint. Moreover, solar panels are perfect for installation on a small scale, such as in private homes, since they require very little maintenance and have a long lifespan. However, the ability to generate solar power depends on the time of day and weather conditions. This means that solar panels are often less useful if they are installed in places where sunny weather is not typical.

Wind power, on the other hand, involves converting the energy of the wind into electricity using large turbines. Wind power produces no greenhouse gases, but it is not ideal for private use since turbines require consistent care. However, wind farms can be installed on a large scale and can produce electricity continuously regardless of the time of day. This means that if there were more investments in wind power, it could be a viable way to provide energy for major cities and even whole regions.

Wind and solar power contribute significantly to a green environment by reducing our reliance on fossil fuels, helping us cut down on pollution and slow climate change. Additionally, using renewable energy sources helps promote spending on sustainable development by creating new career opportunities in the green energy sector.

For now, the biggest challenge of adopting green energy is the costs associated with installation and infrastructure, but the benefits unquestionably outweigh the downsides. If we want to stop the climate crisis and create a better and more sustainable future, green energy sources will undoubtedly be the key.

(Adapted from Bright 12)

Question 23. Which of the following is NOT mentioned as a characteristic of solar power?

A. Zero emissions

B. Requires little maintenance

C. Long lifespan

D. Suitable for large-scale wind farms

Question 24. The word important in paragraph 1 is OPPOSITE in meaning to _____.

A. unnecessary

B. polluted

C. beneficial

D. harmful

Question 25. The word they in paragraph 2 refers to _____.

A. private homes

B. solar panels

C. emissions

D. weather conditions

Question 26. The word viable in paragraph 3 could be best replaced by _____.

A. achievable

B. sustainable

C. profitable

Read the passage about unusual jobs and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions from 31 to 40.

Unusual Jobs

Around the world, there are some jobs that may seem quite strange and surprising to you.

[I] In Japan, the railway system is huge and everyone there uses trains. [II] This makes them overcrowded most of the time. [III] During rush hour, railway station attendants called pushers or oshiya perform a unique task - they push passengers into trains. [IV] This is necessary because of the large number of commuters who wish to arrive at their destinations on time.

Have you ever wondered how the world's tallest building, Burj Khalifa in Dubai, is cleaned? It takes a team of 36 window cleaners a total of three months to clean the tower's reflective windows. Working from a height of more than 800 meters, the cleaners face huge challenges, especially during bad weather. They must be the bravest cleaners in the world.

In the UK, millions of golf balls are lost every year in the lakes and ponds around golf courses. This has led to a demand for golf ball divers, who retrieve and clean the balls. Most divers are professionals, but they spend long hours crawling through mud and carrying heavy buckets. On average, they collect about 5,000 balls per lake, which are later resold or recycled.

Question 31. Where in paragraph 1 does the following sentence best fit?

"This job is quite unusual and essential in crowded cities."

- A. [I]
- B. [II]
- C. [III]
- D. [IV]

Question 32. The phrase perform a unique task in paragraph 1 could be best replaced by _____.

- A. take a necessary action

- C. complete a risky job
- D. do a common activity

Question 33. The word they in paragraph 1 refers to _____.

- A. trains
- B. pushers
- C. passengers
- D. commuters

Question 34. According to paragraph 2, what makes the job of cleaning Burj Khalifa especially challenging?

- A. Long working hours
- B. Limited cleaning tools
- C. Unpredictable weather conditions
- D. The team size of 36 cleaners

Question 35. Which of the following best summarises paragraph 3?

- A. Golf ball divers face dangerous conditions to recover lost balls, which are then resold or recycled.
- B. Golf courses in the UK are losing thousands of balls due to poor maintenance.
- C. Divers are professionals who collect golf balls to make a living, but the job is easy and well-paid.
- D. Recovering golf balls is a lucrative and clean profession for many divers.

Question 36. The word huge in paragraph 3 is OPPOSITE in meaning to _____.

- A. spectacular
- B. large
- C. tiny
- D. immense

Question 37. Which of the following is TRUE according to the passage?

- A. Pushers in Japan help trains run more smoothly by organizing passengers.
- B. Cleaning Burj Khalifa requires a smaller team due to its advanced design.
- C. Golf ball divers collect thousands of balls per lake for personal use.
- D. Lost golf balls in the UK are mostly discarded instead of being recycled.

Question 38. Which of the following best paraphrases the underlined sentence in paragraph 3?

"This has led to a demand for golf ball divers, who retrieve and clean the balls."

- A. The need for golf ball divers arises as more balls are discarded in lakes.
- B. The job of golf ball divers became popular due to lost balls in ponds.

C. More golf balls are lost every year, increasing the need for divers to retrieve and clean them.

D. Golf ball divers became necessary as golf courses grew in size.

Question 39. What can be inferred from the passage?

A. The pushers' job in Japan shows how overcrowding is managed effectively.

B. Cleaning tall buildings like Burj Khalifa is simple with modern technology.

C. Golf ball divers earn their living primarily through professional tournaments.

D. Overcrowded trains and golf ball loss are minor issues in modern society.

Question 40. Which of the following best summarises the passage?

A. Innovative professions like window cleaners and golf ball divers are essential to modern society despite their odd nature.

B. Strange jobs like those of train pushers and golf ball divers are becoming more common in the modern world.

C. Unusual jobs highlight how society adapts to specific problems in transportation, architecture, and recreation.

D. Across the globe, unusual jobs like train pushers, window cleaners, and golf ball divers show how unique challenges create unexpected professions.

Living in the stressful modern era, most of us usually look for sources of relaxation, and it's no secret that viewing nature and being outdoors can be pleasant and restorative. Spending time in nature is linked to improvements in mental health, mood, emotional well – being, and cognitive benefits. However, the more surprising thing is that, according to new research, viewing water may be a better environment for relaxation than green areas with grass and trees.

In a recent article, Harvard psychologist Adam Grant discussed a remarkable 2024 study that he came across, showing that people who viewed water for less than two minutes had reduced blood pressure compared to people who viewed green areas and trees.

So why are nature's blue spaces more relaxing than green ones? According to the original authors of the study, the reason might be related to the process of our evolution. For early humans who have to work hard to survive day by day, the lack of water has always been a major challenge, as it posed a direct threat to life, leading to heightened levels of stress, increases in blood pressure and cardiac stress. Therefore, successfully detecting water or simply just looking at it can provide a sense of great relief.

Being in nature can help you re – invigorate your body, mind, and spirit, offering moments of awe, calm, and relaxation. And now we are learning that bodies of water may bring even greater relaxation. So, whether it's a river, lake, or ocean, it might be time to go outside and find the nearest blue space to experience the effects for yourself!

Read the following passage about urban shift and mark the letter A, B, C, D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions from 31 to 40.

[I] Green living, often referred to as sustainable living, encourages individuals to adopt environmentally friendly practices in their daily lives. [II] This lifestyle includes reducing waste, conserving natural resources, and promoting eco-friendly habits, which collectively help to minimize the negative impact on the environment (Davies & Mulligan, 2017). [III] Although green living requires effort and adjustment, its benefits for the planet and future generations are substantial. [IV]

One of the fundamental aspects of green living is waste reduction. This can be achieved through practices like recycling, composting, and reducing single-use plastics. According to a report by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), recycling and composting can significantly decrease the amount of waste sent to landfills, which helps reduce greenhouse gas emissions and pollution (EPA, 2021). Additionally, adopting reusable items such as water bottles and shopping bags minimizes reliance on plastic, which is crucial for protecting ecosystems and wildlife.

Another key component of green living is energy conservation. Simple changes, like switching to LED light bulbs and using public transportation, can reduce an individual's carbon footprint. A study by the International Energy Agency (IEA) shows that energy efficiency improvements, if widely implemented, could decrease global energy demand by up to 40% by 2050 (IEA, 2019). By conserving energy, individuals not only lower their utility bills but also contribute to the reduction of carbon emissions, which is essential for mitigating climate change.

Green living also involves making conscious choices about the products we consume. This includes opting for sustainably sourced goods, supporting local businesses, and choosing organic produce. Sustainable agriculture practices reduce the need for chemical pesticides and fertilizers, which can harm both the soil and water sources (Smith & Taylor, 2020). By making informed purchases, consumers can support eco-friendly industries and help create a demand for greener alternatives.

Read the following passage about the cultural diversity and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions from 1 to 10.

[I] In today's globalized world, cultural diversity has become a fundamental aspect of many societies. [II] Many countries are experiencing increasing levels of migration. [III] With the rise of immigration and the blending of traditions, people from various cultural backgrounds are now living side by side in cities across the globe. [IV]

One of the key advantages of cultural diversity is the richness that it adds to a society. Different cultures introduce unique viewpoints, foods, languages, and traditions, which help people broaden their understanding of the world. In schools and workplaces, cultural diversity fosters creativity and innovation, as individuals from different backgrounds approach problems in innovative ways. However, there are also challenges associated with living in culturally diverse communities. Misunderstandings and communication barriers can arise when people are unfamiliar with each other's customs and values. To address these issues, societies must encourage cultural sensitivity and create opportunities for cross-cultural exchange.

Governments and institutions around the world are beginning to implement policies that promote inclusion and respect for cultural differences. By celebrating diversity through events, education, and media representation, communities can create environments where people feel valued regardless of their background. Ultimately, embracing cultural diversity helps to build more peaceful and harmonious societies.

Question 1. The word “innovative” in paragraph 2 could best be replaced by _____.

A. common B. traditional C. original D. flexible

Question 2. Which of the following best paraphrases the underlined sentence in paragraph 3?

A. Understanding cultural diversity fully is necessary for harmonious societies.
B. Celebrating diversity alone cannot solve the issues in culturally diverse communities.

C. Communities can create inclusive environments by encouraging cultural events and education.

D. Misunderstandings will persist without education about different cultures.

Question 3. Which of the following is TRUE according to the passage?

A. Misunderstandings in diverse communities arise due to unfamiliar customs.

B. Cross-cultural exchange programs are unnecessary for promoting inclusion.

C. Cultural diversity mainly benefits societies by creating job opportunities.

D. Governments have not yet addressed the challenges posed by cultural diversity.

Question 4. Which of the following can be inferred from the passage?

A. Governments are failing to address the complexities of cultural diversity.

B. Cultural diversity can be both an asset and a challenge for communities.

C. Increased immigration automatically leads to social harmony.

D. Cultural sensitivity programs are ineffective in reducing communication barriers.

Question 5. Which of the following best summarizes the passage?

A. Governments should focus on reducing immigration to prevent the problems associated with cultural diversity.

B. Embracing cultural diversity is easy for societies that celebrate traditions and language differences without the need for cross-cultural exchange.

C. Immigration has led to challenges for societies that can only be solved by eliminating cultural differences.

D. Cultural diversity enriches societies by promoting new perspectives and innovation, but it also requires efforts to overcome misunderstandings and communication barriers.

C. Expanding mindset

D. Enhancing creativity

Question 10. Which of the following best summarizes paragraph 3?

A. Policies that promote inclusion are reducing the challenges caused by cultural diversity.

B. Promoting cross-cultural exchange helps societies overcome the challenges of diversity.

C. Governments and institutions are taking steps to address the cultural diversity by promoting inclusiveness and respect.

D. Celebrating cultural diversity creates more harmonious and peaceful societies.

Read the following passage about world festivals and mark the best answer to the questions from 11 to 18.

World festivals have a big impact on young people today. Festivals such as Christmas, Diwali, Halloween, and Chinese New Year are celebrated across the globe, bringing people together. Young people especially enjoy these events because they offer a chance to have fun, learn about different cultures, and develop a global mindset.

Festivals help young people appreciate diversity. Attending a festival from another culture teaches them new traditions, food, music, and art. For example, attending the Rio Carnival or the Holi Festival of Colors can give young people an exciting experience of new cultures. They learn to respect and understand people from different backgrounds, which is important in today's world.

Another impact is that festivals allow young people to express themselves creatively. Many festivals include costumes, dances, and music that encourage self-expression. For instance, during Halloween or a music festival like Coachella, young people often wear creative outfits or costumes that reflect their personalities. This makes them feel confident and allows them to experiment with new styles.

Festivals also offer opportunities for young people to connect with others. Meeting people at festivals, whether in person or online, helps them build friendships and networks. Social media plays a big role in this, as many young people post about their experiences, spreading awareness of the festivals they attend.

Overall, world festivals provide many learning and social experiences for young people, helping them grow into more open-minded and creative individuals.

Question 11. Which of the following is TRUE according to the passage?

- A. Peer pressure at festivals prevents young people from enjoying themselves.
- B. Festivals do not influence young people's personal development.
