P1.
Wind Power

Wind is a form of solar energy. It happens because the Sun heats different parts of the Earth unevenly. Wind moves in different directions because of mountains, water, and trees. People can use wind to create electricity by using wind turbines.

Wind turbines come in different sizes. The largest ones are as tall as a 20-story building and can produce enough electricity for 1,400 homes. Smaller wind turbines, with blades between 8 and 25 feet long, stand about 30 feet tall. They can generate power for a modern house or a small business.

There are also very small wind turbines, producing less than 50 kilowatts of power. These are often used for homes, communication systems, or pumping water. Wind energy is clean and does not cause pollution, making it a good alternative to fossil fuels.

In the future, wind power may become even more common. More people and businesses might use wind turbines to help reduce pollution and create a greener world.

Question 1. What is the main idea of the passage?
A. The different sizes of wind turbines.
B. Wind power and how it is used.
C. Why wind moves in different directions.

Exercise 16. Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the following questions.

P1.
Wind Power

Wind is a form of solar energy. It happens because the Sun heats different parts of the Earth unevenly. Wind moves in different directions because of mountains, water, and trees. People can use wind to create electricity by using wind turbines.

Wind turbines come in different sizes. The largest ones are as tall as a 20-story building and can produce enough electricity for 1,400 homes. Smaller wind turbines, with blades between 8 and 25 feet long, stand about 30 feet tall. They can generate power for a modern house or a small business.

There are also very small wind turbines, producing less than 50 kilowatts of power. These are often used for homes, communication systems, or pumping water. Wind energy is clean and does not cause pollution, making it a good alternative to fossil fuels.

In the future, wind power may become even more common. More people and businesses might use wind turbines to help reduce pollution and create a greener world.

Question 1. What is the main idea of the passage?
A. The different sizes of wind turbines.
B. Wind power and how it is used.
C. Why wind moves in different directions.
D. The history of wind energy.

Question 2. Why does wind exist?

Question 6. How much power do single small turbines generate?
A. About 30 kilowatts B. more than 50 kilowatts
C. About 750 kilowatts D. less than 50 kilowatts

Notice to All Visitors

In the future, transportation will be much faster and safer. Many people believe that we will have flying cars that can travel in the sky. These cars will use clean energy and will not cause pollution. Scientists are also working on self-driving cars. These cars will use smart technology to drive without human control. This will help reduce traffic accidents.

Another exciting idea is the high-speed train. This train will move very quickly using magnetic force. It will help people travel long distances in a short time. Bicycles will also become more popular. In the future, electric bikes will be light, fast, and easy to ride. People will use them more to protect the environment.
